The solution to your question is that in order to deploy production code changes to your live environment, you generally need to deploy the MSI package or the set of DLLs itself. If you are deploying to other developers, you can take the idea one step further and use a version control system to record changes to the DLLs. To be a little more specific, when you develop an application, you have:

Q: How to make custom slider? I am a newbie and trying to create custom slider. I found this project: I tried to implement all the changes made in that project. But it doesn't work. No matter what I do, the slider is just stuck in infinite loop. This is how I am using the project:

import React from 'react'
import CustomSlider from './Components/CustomSlider' import classNames from 'classnames' import { Collapse } from 'reactstrap' export default class App extends React.Component { constructor() {
    super();
    this.state = { isCustom: false }
    this.handleClick = this.handleClick.bind(this);
  }
  handleClick() {
    this.setState({ isCustom: !this.state.isCustom });
  render() {
    const { isCustom } = this.state;
    return ( ) } } // CustomSlider.js import React, { Component } from 'react' import PropTypes from 'prop-types' import { FormattedMessage } from 'react-intl' export default class CustomSlider extends

My experience with DevExpress is that it's a bit of work on the install. that the debugger will function. During the development process, it also started to cause issues - but, that's just me being picky.. the CS_2012 components, but maybe this can be worked around.
