. Fitting these mounts to the TV requires a bit of care, but it is possible to. Whether you have a router or a TV, they are just simple little boxes with a network connection. In the course of drilling operations, it is quite often necessary to change a drill bit to be used during drilling. In some cases, the drill bit that is to be changed is connected to a drill string and is not retrieved to the surface, but is instead left in place for recovery when the drill string has been retrieved. However, it is also often desirable to retrieve the drill bit after drilling has been completed so as to be able to recover the drill bit for further use or disposal. In either case, it is often desirable to have the retrieved drill bit be readily separated from the rest of the drill string in order to facilitate use of the retrieved drill bit. U.S. Pat. No. 7,007,764, to Blevins et al, discloses a mechanism for facilitating retrieval and separation of a drill bit from a drill string. The Blevins et al mechanism includes a plurality of clips that are attached at spaced-apart intervals along the drill string. The clips of Blevins et al are intercoupled with each other by springs. In use, the clips are sheared from the drill string by application of force against the drill string in the direction of the longitudinal axis thereof. The sheared clips act to separate the drill bit from the rest of the drill string in a cohesive fashion. What is needed is an improved mechanism for facilitating retrieval and separation of a drill bit from a drill string that is readily adaptable to existing drill strings. So I'm almost 4 months post-op with the mastectomy and cosmetic reconstruction. I know, I know, we're already on post-op. I'm not going to berate you for it because you've been so gracious throughout this whole process. I started this blog hoping to be able to write an update every month. I'm not going to lie to you and tell you that the surgeries went as planned and everything turned out great. That would be a lie. I'm very happy, the surgery went great. My healing up for a while now and I'm beginning to do things for myself and I love that. I just felt like I had a lot to talk about and I realized that all I was doing was giving my blessing to the actual surgery. 04aeff104c
