Sebaceous gland nevus of the oral mucosa. An unusual case of a nevus of the oral mucosa with histopathologic and ultrastructural features that are similar to those described in sebaceous nevi of the skin is presented. The nevus presented on the right cheek of a 32-year-old man as a firm nodule on the right buccal mucosa with only minimal erythema. Histopathologically, the lesion revealed nests of large, sebaceous-like cells with numerous palely eosinophilic, finely vacuolated cytoplasmic inclusions that were periodic acid-Schiff (PAS) positive. In a few cells, small lipid vacuoles were found that were argyrophilic with PAS. Ultrastructurally, the neoplastic cells contained abundant desmosomes with scattered tonofilaments, microtubules, and free ribosomes. Electron-dense, lamellated material was also present in the cytoplasm and extracellular space. Although sebaceous gland nevi of the oral mucosa have been reported previously, the nevus presented herein is unique in that it is histologically similar to a sebaceous nevus of the skin, yet its ultrastructural features are also identical to the nevus in other locations.

Q: Android library: where to put classes I am trying to write an Android library, to share code between my Android apps and Java code. I created the library project (Gradle, with Android Studio), but when I try to run the app, I get: `java.lang.NoClassDefFoundError: com.example.activities.SlideProgress at com.example.activities.SlideProgress.(SlideProgress.java:30)` Which is inside my `SlideProgress.java`. It seems that the build system don't recognize the package and that it is looking for the package com.example.activities in my project, and not in my library. So, where should I put the package declaration? A: f988f36e3a
