that, the PCs stopped to boot, and the screen freezes. (I have no

AC, I have no idea how it happens) So, I did a clean reinstall, but the problem comes back. (of course, this time, I have the boot info in a USB) Any ideas? Hi, i need your help. I have a HP pavilion, windows 7 home premium 32-bit, 2.4 GHz CPU, and 1GB memory. I also have a realtek HD audio (Realtek ALC887). I have not been able to make audio work, the sound is really weird and has no volume at all. But I have found out that when I have the HP webcam plugged, I have no problem at all. I tried a lot of things, but I don't know what else to try. The mic does not work, and I have not found a software that can do it (at least not for free). The only thing that I can think of is a hardware problem. Thanks a lot for the help. PS: Also I have an ALC892, but the audio jack that I have is in the motherboard (the little hole that connects the motherboard to the audio card). A:Not that I do not need it. 2edc1e01e8
