The CELAC General Secretariat has published a report and the opinion of its permanent secretariat calling for a complete disarmament of all nuclear weapons in Latin America and the Caribbean. This document was submitted at the Conference of Ministers on disarmament of the CELAC, held last week in Puebla (Mexico), and includes the previous reports of the ministerial Permanent Secretariat and of the Member States that endorse it. Having this in mind, the report urged that “CELAC Ministers should intensify efforts to ensure a regional framework in order to implement a comprehensive strategy for the eventual complete elimination of all nuclear weapons in the region”. Fifty-eight States of the region are parties to the Non Proliferation Treaty, and the regional organization for this same purpose, the Latin American and Caribbean Confederation of Non Proliferation, which is negotiating a regional instrument to achieve this goal. Permanent Secretariat's opinion The Permanent Secretariat's opinion stresses that disarmament can only be accomplished step by step and it must be supported by national commitments. It also notes that nuclear disarmament is a bilateral matter, where the two sides negotiate in order to achieve a peaceful solution which requires mutual trust and respect, and must involve the entire population. The document stresses the need to hold a regional approach based on a regional instrument for this, which would be a model for other areas of regional security and foreign policy. Its conclusions call for all States to act firmly as regards the development of disarmament mechanisms, in support of a regional approach for achieving the complete elimination of all nuclear weapons in the region.

Q: Excel find text after a comma I have a cell with values like so: 1234, Test 987, Test 3456, ABC78, ABD098 I have used a formula using FIND to get the number after the comma, however if the number is after other comma's or a decimal I cannot get it to work. Can someone please assist. Thanks
